Polyunsaturated fatty acids (PUFAs) are an integral part of cell membranes and act through various mechanisms influencing the function of membrane proteins, intracellular signalling pathways and gene expression and altering the production of lipid mediators. Omega 3 and omega 6 PUFAs share the same metabolic pathways providing bioactive metabolites of different kinds. In general, an increased presence of omega 3 PUFAs in cell membranes leads to an increased generation of less inflammatory and pro-resolving mediators as a result of enzymatic activities on omega 3 rather than omega 6 PUFAs. In this regard, an optimal ratio of omega 6 and omega 3 fatty acids is important for health. The richest dietary source of omega 3 PUFAs is oily fish and other seafood. However, the sustainability of seafood and the accumulation of toxic substances through the aquatic food chain are global challenges. Trends towards sustainable plant-based diets mean that modern dietary staples are shifting with momentum, leading to ramifications for intakes of omega 3 fatty acids and the essential fatty acid metabolic pathway. Subsequently, there are growing demands for sustainable food-derived sources of omega 3 fatty acids.
