the first book on christian apologetics written by a leading atheist figure that teaches christians the best and worst arguments for defending their faith against attack the christian faith has been vigorously defended with a variety of philosophical historical and theological arguments but many of the arguments used in an earlier age no longer resonate in today s educated west where has apologetics gone wrong what is the best response to the growing challenge presented by scientific discovery and naturalistic thought unlike every work on christian apologetics that has come before how to defend the christian faith is the first one written by an atheist for christians as a former christian defender who is now a leading atheist thinker john loftus answers these questions and more he tells would be apologists how to train properly where to study what to study

what issues they should concern themselves with and how poorly the professors who currently train them practice their craft in the process he shows readers why christian apologists have failed to reach the intelligent nonbeliever for those christian apologists who think this book will provide a secret formula to convert the nonbelieving masses be warned as an exposé of the present state of christian apologetics it can just as easily be used by atheists to refute apologetic arguments thus this book presents both an opportunity and a challenge to christians they must either change how apologetics is done or quit doing apologetics altogether the book you are holding in your hands is perhaps the simplest most straightforward summary and how to guide for presuppositional apologetics now in print it is both informative and practically helpful i believe you will find it an extremely useful tool whether you are an professor at the seminary level seeking supplemental reading material or just a simple lay person looking for practical answers pastor mcmanis writes with crisp clarity in a way that is certain to give you fresh insight into what scripture teaches about the defense of the christian faith i wish this book had been available when i was studying apologetics in seminary john macarthur pastor teacher grace community church president of the masters college and seminary cliff has rescued the discipline from the elite circle of the intelligentsia and returned it as a biblical theology of truth communication to the common people i.e. to all believers this volume will be of great help in the restoration of the practicality of biblical apologetics as it was exemplified in the early church hopefully today's readers will be able to understand and put into practice the true nature of peters command in 1 peter 3:15 as it is strategically situated in its defining context george j zemek academic dean the expositors seminary jupiter florida examine the roots and practicality of biblical and modern apologetics with the guidance of five experts and learn to apply their best practices to your own journey god has called christians to be prepared to defend their hope in christ but what's the best method for making this defense in this book five expert apologists set out together to determine which approach to apologetics is the most faithful to scripture and the most useful in a secular age in this fast paced and thorough exploration enjoy learning solid scriptural defenses for the use of apologetics five different approaches to apologetics and how to employ them and much more understanding apologetics presents in counterpoint form five popular approaches to the defense of the christian faith that have developed throughout history from the early days of christianity through to our practices today apologetics philosophies explored here include cultural apologetics presuppositional apologetics evidential apologetics classical apologetics ecclesial apologetics about the contributors these defenses are much more than academic each contributor is a scholar who also practices apologetics daily the result is a thorough yet fast paced and practical guide to defending your faith melissa cain travis phd faulkner university argues that classical apologetics is still vital and relevant today sean mcdowell phd the southern baptist theological seminary contends that evidential apologetics is better suited than other methods when it comes to answering people's doubts about the christian faith james n anderson phd university of edinburgh focuses on epistemology and makes the case for presuppositional apologetics d a horton phd southeastern baptist theological seminary suggests the other perspectives are incomplete until they include cultural apologetics timothy paul jones phd the southern baptist theological seminary retrieves the apologetics methods of the early church and recontextualizes these ancient arguments to meet the challenges of a secular age defending the christian faith by demonstrating its reality relational apologetics is about your life becoming a defense of the christian faith every relationship you have is an opportunity for you to connect people to their creator by displaying your hope both in word and deed defending your faith is not just about answering questions and proving that god exists it is about showing that he is real by the way you live it is about demonstrating the power of god through your holiness and it is about drawing people to jesus through your kindness using stories and drawing on personal experiences sherrard teaches the importance of holiness treating skeptics with respect engaging in authentic conversations instead of shouting matches and having well thought out answers to the skeptic's questions the book doesn't delve deeply into the scientific and philosophical arguments for the existence of god and the validity of christianity rather it provides solid simple and easily remembered reasons why one should believe it also teaches essential relational skills that are necessary for talking to skeptics and maintaining healthy relationships with them is it still possible in an age of religious and cultural pluralism to engage in christian apologetics how can one urge one's faith on others when such a gesture is typically regarded with suspicion if not outright resentment in humble apologetics john g stackhouse brings his wide experience as a historian philosopher journalist and theologian to these important questions and offers surprising and reassuring answers stackhouse begins by acknowledging the real impediments to christian testimony in north america today and to other faiths in modern societies around the world he shows how pluralism postmodernism skepticism and a host of other factors create a cultural milieu resistant to the christian message and he shows how the arrogance or dogmatism of apologists themselves can alienate rather than attract potential converts indeed stackhouse argues that the crucial experience of conversion cannot be compelled all the apologist can do is lead another to the point where an actual encounter with jesus can take place finally he shows how displaying an attitude of humility instead of merely trying to win religious arguments will help believers offer their neighbors the gift of christ's love drawing on the author's personal experience and written with an engaging directness and an unassuming nature humble apologetics provides sound guidance on how to share christian faith in a postmodern world we are often reminded that we live in a post christian culture but most christians fail to realize that we are losing the culture war in america today because we have essentially forfeited the intellectual war ideas have consequences and history has shown that what is intellectually respectable becomes over time socially acceptable and culturally normative many evangelical churches emphasize theology those core biblical doctrines that christians traditionally have believed but few emphasize apologetics why it is reasonable and defensible to believe these things the case for christian apologetics presents the reasons why apologetics is so vitally essential today and why christians should study to be prepared so as to effectively explain and defend the unique truth claims of the christian faith now more than ever christians need to tune in turn on and engage the great spiritual moral and intellectual issues of our day so as to fulfill our calling as a source of light and truth in a society and culture that is becoming increasingly biblically illiterate and spiritually dark regrettably anti intellectualism is not only a pervasive problem among non christians many christians also have an anti intellectual orientation that limits their understanding of the faith and the credibility of their testimony of all people christians should be the most thoughtful the most inquisitive and the most creative as we strive to fulfill what jesus declared to be the greatest of all commandments to love honor and serve god with all our heart soul mind and strength and to love others as we love ourselves when defending the faith it is not sufficient to merely go after a few surface issues the real battle goes much deeper the defender of the historic christian faith must blast deep into the foundations of the enemy s worldview by exposing and destroying his presuppositions the battle for truth cannot be won apart from destroying the false presuppositions held by those who reject the gospel christian apologetics is more important than ever we must be able to defend our faith because christianity is a faith worth defending if you are confident about what you believe prepared to talk to skeptics about jesus and able to answer difficult questions about your faith then you are considerably ahead of most christians if you are not ready to defend the faith don t worry a twelve week study of apologetics will prepare you to engage skeptics with more confidence and less pressure this 12 week workbook can be used to lead a small group or class in a discussion of christian apologetics and strategies for defending the faith in early christian apologetics d h williams offers a comprehensive presentation of christian apologetic literature from the second to the fifth century considering each writer within the intellectual context of the day williams argues that most apologies were not directed at a pagan readership in most cases he says ancient apologetics had a double object to instruct the christian and to persuade weak christians or non christians who were sympathetic to christian claims traditionally scholars of apologetics have focused on the context of persecution in the pre constantinian period by following the links in the intellectual trajectory up through the early fifth century williams prompts deeper reflection on the process of christian self definition in late antiquity taken cumulatively he finds apologetic literature was in fact integral to the formation of the christian identity in the roman world
