focusing on vancouver s social history the essays written for this special edition of bc studies treat hitherto neglected areas of the city s past and bring new insights into how its residents lived and worked receiving particular attention is the socio economic and residential structure of vancouver with one author arguing that the city s economy created an urban working class which was at once more complex and politically more conservative than that of the highly polarized communities on vancouver island and in the interior

during the 1960s and 1970s the growth of interest in the urban past was one of the most prominent developments in historical studies in the united kingdom in large part this was due to the work of the late h j dyos professor of urban history at the university of leicester as teacher writer and propagandist this book brings together some of dyos s most important and influential essays written over nearly thirty years at one level this book may be read as a fitting memorial to the work influence and writings of a first rate historian at another it furnishes an indispensable guide to the study of urban development and the nineteenth century city and to the perspective which that study affords on the urban present for bernard williams philosophy and history are importantly connected his work exploits this connection in a number of directions he believes that philosophy cannot ignore its own history the way science can that even when engaging with philosophy s history primarily to produce history one needs to draw on philosophy and that when doing the history of philosophy primarily to produce philosophy one still needs a sense of how historically distant past philosophers are because the point of reading them is to confront something different from the present but williams also holds that systematic philosophy itself needs to be done historically engaging not just with its own history but with that of the concepts it seeks to understand to explore these different ways in which philosophy and history intertwine this volume assembles specially commissioned contributions by a w moore terence irwin sophie grace chappell catherine rowett marcel van ackeren john cottingham gerald lang lorenzo greco paul russell carla bagnoli peter kail david owen giuseppina d oro james connelly matthieu queloz nikhil krishnan john marenbon ralph wedgwood garrett cullity hans johann glock geraldine ng ilaria cozzaglio amanda r greene and miranda fricker they critically appraise williams s work in and on the history of philosophy as well as his historicist turn and his use of genealogy the collection uniquely combines substantive discussions of historical figures from homer to wittgenstein with methodological discussions of how and why the history of philosophy should be done and how and why philosophy should draw on history
