a unique and powerful look at a new zealand experiment in social welfare gone wrong from the late 1950s to the mid 1980s when most of them were closed down the new zealand government maintained 26 residences for children and teenagers some of those children had the bad fortune to come from families with large numbers of children and who couldn t cope financially plucking a child out and putting him in a home to ease the burden was seen as a solution other children in came from profoundly dysfunctional backgrounds or were profoundly dysfunctional themselves could putting them all together in close quarters supervised by staff with mostly inadequate training ever deliver a positive outcome in this powerfully written book david cohen who himself spent time at epuni boys home in the 1970s argues not he tracks down former residents and staff members many of whom argue that boys home stints led boys to rather than away from lives of crime it also led some into abuse evocatively and originally written cohen's research takes him back to the era of moral panic about juvenile delinquency that drove the creation of the homes and traces the sea change in ideas about the care of troubled adolescents especially maori who were hugely over represented in the muster that spelled their eventual demise totally gripping it is a unique insider account of a failed experiment little criminals death before dishonor by beloved s allah little criminals death before dishonor is the gritty true story of a group of young boys who start out as friends and in the end become enemies the tale walks the reader through the day and life of what it was like growing up in new york as a group of boys who become men wanting more out of life than what they or their parents had we should be reminded that no matter what your condition is a person can change the characters in kurt rheinheimer's first collection are players in the late innings of a tied ball game between hope and the limitations imposed by their histories obsessions affections loyalties and unspoken regrets more real than the residents of masters spoon river more familiar than the denizens of winesburg rheinheimer's people young and old look straight at us as though waiting for us to remember that we are not alone in our struggle to understand and to become whole though the stories have the weight and reach we expect from serious fiction they also frequently tiptoe on the margins of hilarity and the washed up ball players hubcap collectors minor league umpires mobile home salesmen and all the others we meet on our way through small town america also serve out generous helpings of charm in the richly interdisciplinary study challenging addiction in canadian literature and classrooms cara fabre argues that popular culture in its many forms contributes to common assumptions about the causes and personal and social implications of addiction recent fictional depictions of addiction significantly refute the idea that addiction is caused by poor individual choices or solely by disease through the connections the authors draw between substance use and poverty colonialism and gender based violence with particular interest in the pervasive myth of the drunken indian fabre asserts that these novels reimagine addiction as social suffering rather than individual pathology or moral failure fabre builds on the growing body of humanities research that brings literature into active engagement with other fields of study including biomedical and cognitive behavioural models of addiction medical and health policies of harm reduction and the practices of alcoholics anonymous the book further engages with critical pedagogical strategies to teach critical awareness of stereotypes of addiction and to encourage the potential of literary analysis as a form of social activism
